BVMs allow you to speak directly to your target audience with pre-recorded messages. They're an ideal tool for raising awareness at critical times and for delivering your message. BVMs can be used to gather information from your target audience (using automated data collection) or to direct them to a live operator for more complex surveying and message delivery.

Our experience shows BVMs are a cost-effective way to build participation and awareness.

Stratcom will work with you to design the message and strategy—all you need is a list to call and a reason to reach out.

STRATCOM'S CLIENTS HAVE USED BVMS TO:

1 Promote Events

BVMs are a cost-effective way to promote attendance at member meetings.

2 Increase Awareness

Get the word out about critical issues by informing the public with pre-recorded BVMs from your leadership or members.

3 Update membership

Prompt members to update their contact information or other membership details, ensuring your union maintains accurate and up-to-date data.

4 Get feedback

Get detailed feedback from surveying your target audience with Interactive BVMs. Using Stratcom's reporting system, IBVMs can capture responses from callers' touchtone keypads when prompted with a question.

The folks at Stratcom were very attentive and thorough, especially given the large project and several moving parts.”

About Stratcom

Strategic Communications is an industry leader in Broadcast Voice Messages in Canada—we were among the first to introduce them to our clients 20 years ago and have since run thousands of BVMs. With offices across Canada and in the United Kingdom, we work with unions, non-profit organizations, advocacy groups, charities, and progressive causes to strengthen their engagement and reach in their campaign and organizational work. Stratcom's advantage rests in our innovative strategies to enable our clients to be more effective and as a result, create a positive impact in their local and global communities.
